THE EXTRA SESSION.

It Will Convene at Noon, Monday, August 31st.

Twelve Distinct Subjects Are to Be Considered.

Contrary to expectations the time fixed is Monday, Aug. 31. The Governor had contemplated calling the session, and the date was fixed two weeks later. The Governor has received numerous letters from the people asking that their constituents be allowed more time to consider the questions that will come up and give them instructions.

The proclamation is as follows:

Governor's Proclamation.

WHEREAS, the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee, Executive Department,
Nashville, Aug. 7, 1891.

To the members of the Forty-seventh General Assembly of the State of Tennessee.

Whereas, it has been made manifest that the public welfare requires immediate legislation upon several matters of general interest, which are of such nature as to require an extraordinary session for the assembling of the Legislature of the State.

Now, therefore, I, John P. Buchanan, Governor of the State of Tennessee, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by section 1, article 11, of the Constitution of the State of Tennessee, do hereby convene the Forty-seventh General Assembly of Tennessee in extraordinary session in the Capitol at Nashville, on Monday, the 31st day of August, 1891, at the hour of twelve noon, for the purpose of considering and acting upon the following matters, to-wit:

1. To pass such statutes as will enable the Executive to comply with the requirements of the Constitution, "that he shall execute the laws," and to this end create and place at his disposal such force, civil or military, or both, as will be sufficient for that purpose.

2. To enact, amend or repeal such laws with reference to the penitentiary of the State, as shall be deemed prom-otive to the public good, as the fitting working and safe-keeping of the convicts; the removal, rebuilding and management of the State prison; the consideration of measures that will reduce the cost of the penitentiary, and the with free labor to the minimum and confine at the same time to the humanity of the power of the State, and also the policy of increasing and defining more thoroughly the powers of the State, are matters that will be especially commended to the attention of the General Assembly.

3. To pass statutes to modify, amend and repeal the laws relating to the procedure in this State.

4. To pass statutes to modify, amend

A Fool's Paradise.

(From the Nashville American.)

There is now offered for consideration to the people of the United States an example from the terrible results which come from turning a government into a money-lending institution. The entire collapse and ruin of a thirty and presented people, brought about by the very schemes advocated by Foster and Stanford, was pictured in an article in the Century Magazine for August.

The article is headed "The Argentine Chap Money Paradise." The Argentine Republic has a government very similar to that of the United States. The people are an energetic and pushing race, continually endeavoring to improve themselves and their country. The development and they conceived the idea that what they needed was cheap money and plenty of it. They reasoned that if it could be used as a basis to issue money on the Government, that the security would be perfect and business would be prosperous. The Government, however, was not so easily deceived. The Government empowered the National Bank to issue mortgage loans to any and every one to the amount of one-half of the appraised value of his property. The bank was to issue "refunding" bonds, and was to trade in the stock exchange. During the seven years that it was in existence, the bank issued $50,000,000, which amounted to $100 for every man, woman and child in the country. With the advent of the Government in the money-lending business, a wild deluge of speculation seized on the people. All kinds of property were loaned on, and the bank was flooded with loans. The bank was to issue "refunding" bonds, and was to trade in the stock exchange. During the seven years that it was in existence, the bank issued $50,000,000, which amounted to $100 for every man, woman and child seven years that it was in existence, the bank issued $50,000,000, which amounted to $100 for every man, woman and child in the country. With the advent of the Government in the money-lending business, a wild deluge of speculation seized on the people. All kinds of property were loaned on, and the bank was flooded with loans. The bank was to issue "refunding" bonds, and was to trade in the stock exchange. During the
